Wallpaper Materials

Wallpaper is available in two main types based on the application method: pasted and adhesive-backed. Each type offers unique benefits depending on the project and the desired level of durability and permanence.

Both Adhesive and Pasted Wallpapers are available in a variety of textures.

Pasted Wallpaper

COVR Pasted Wallpapers are Type II certified for use in high-traffic areas, commonly found in commercial settings like hotels, offices, hospitals, and retail spaces. It is characterized by its strength, resilience, and ability to withstand wear and tear, making it suitable for spaces where walls may be subject to frequent impact or contact.

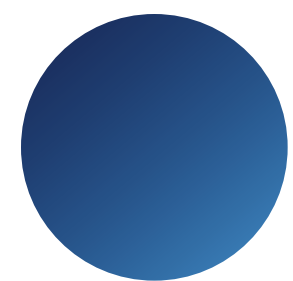

Key Characteristics of Type II Commercial Wallpaper

Durability

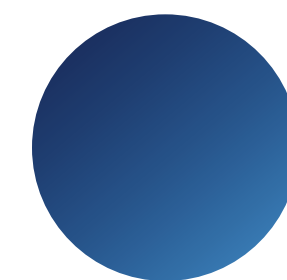

Designed for long-term use, especially in environments where it will encounter frequent physical contact such as:

- Hotel lobbies and hallways
- Hospitals and medical facilities
- Schools and public facilities

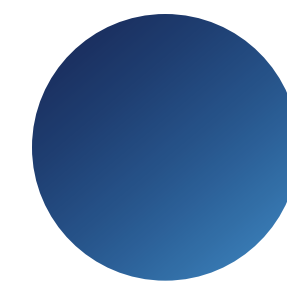

Fire Resistance

Type II wallcoverings are typically treated to meet fire-resistant requirements (such as NFPA 286 or ASTM E84 standards).

Washability & Stain Resistance

Highly resistant to stains and moisture, making it easy to clean and maintain. Some versions are scrubbable, which allows for frequent cleaning in demanding environments.

Weight & Thickness

Resistant to scratches and dents, and when applied properly, will hide minor wall imperfections and other types of damage reducing the visibility of unevenness.

Adhesive Backed Wallpaper

COVR Adhesive Backed Wallpapers are designed for short to medium term applications up to 7 years and can be easily removed. Our Adhesive Backed Wallpapers have a proprietary adhesive which creates a strong bond with most smooth clean surfaces while , yet the microspheric chemistry of the adhesive prevents the adhesive from penetrating into drywall and therefore minimizes the chance of damage upon removal.

The media can be applied and reapplied many times over without any sacrifice in sticking power.

Window Films

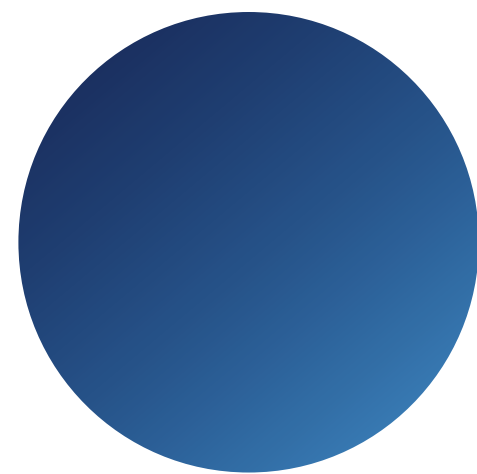

Window Films

Transform glass surfaces into dynamic design elements that enhance privacy, control light, and add a customized aesthetic to any space.

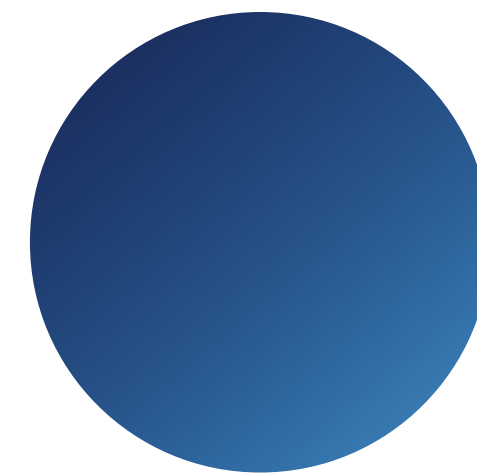

Covr window films are available in two types, Frosted and Anti Bird.

Enhanced Privacy

Customization

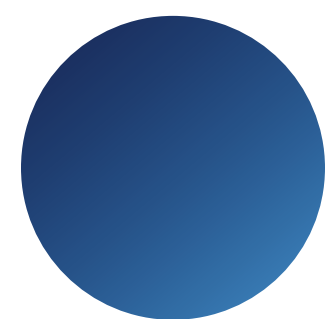

Frosted Window Film

Cover frosted window film is a decorative window film that creates the appearance of sandblasted or etched glass. It is commonly used to provide privacy while allowing light to pass through, offering a frosted effect that softens the light and reduces glare in offices, conference rooms, storefronts, and residential areas where people want to add a touch of elegance to glass surfaces without sacrificing natural light.

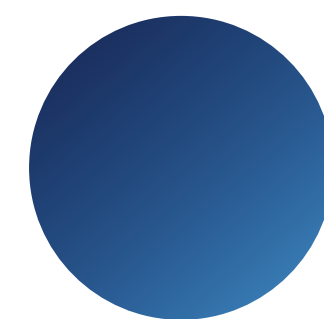

Our Frosted window film is completely customizable & a key design element to enhance privacy and aesthetics in architectural designs.

Key Characteristics of Frosted Window Film

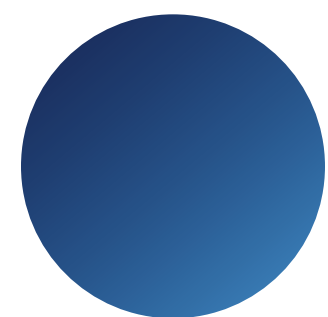

Privacy

It obscures visibility, making it difficult to see through the glass while still allowing daylight.

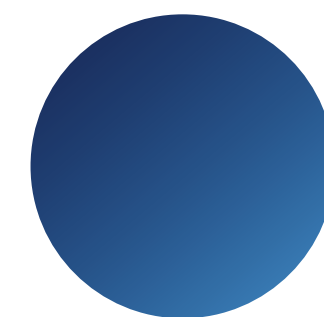

Aesthetic Appeal

Mimics the look of etched or frosted glass at a fraction of the cost.

UV Protection

Some films also block harmful UV rays, protecting interiors from fading due to sunlight.

Removable

Many types of dusted crystal window film are non-permanent and can be removed or replaced without damaging the glass.

Anti Bird Window Film

Feather Friendly® Bird Collision Deterrent Technologies makes glass visible to birds. This material offers high quality solutions with exceptional durability and longevity. This film is tested and approved* by American Bird Conservancy, Dr. Daniel Klem Jr., and supported by countless other organizations.

Window Films

Combining Functionality With Artistic Expression

Window films elevate architectural designs by combining functionality with artistic expression.

Custom-printed window films allow architects to transform glass surfaces into dynamic design elements that enhance privacy, control light, and add a customized aesthetic to any space.

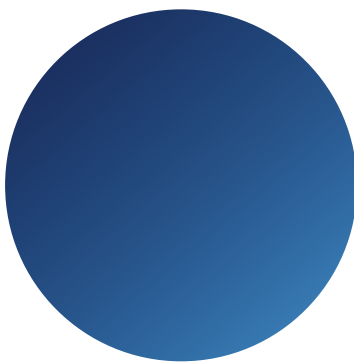

With the ability to incorporate custom graphics, patterns, or branding, digitally printed window film enables the creation of unique visual experiences that can complement the overall design narrative.

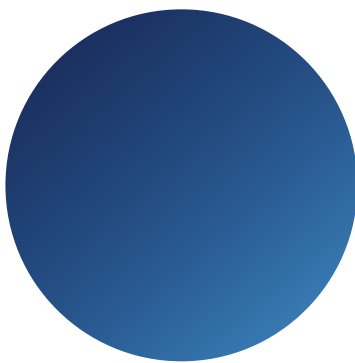

Enhance Security & Energy Efficiency

Performance window films can enhance security and energy efficiency through shatter protection and managing solar gain and glare while maintaining transparency or providing opacity where needed.

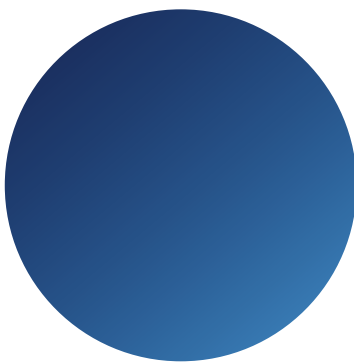

Digitally printed window film is a versatile and impactful tool for interior glass applications, adding both beauty and practicality to modern architectural projects.
